PLAIN MURDER A BORE
GIVE SUCCESS A CHANCE
DANGER IN EVERYTHING
A HINT TO STALIN

By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright 1930 By King Features

Big cities are becoming very blasé concerning murder. New York's police discover parts of a dismembered body in places miles apart, the torso floating in the river, legs lying in the street. The only clue is a laundry mark. Once this would have been a "great murder mystery" rivalling the famous Goldensuppe case, or the "Lamp Black swamp mystery," which kept reporters searching and imaging for weeks. But mere individual murders cease to interest.

In Chicago eight young bandits enter a cabaret, one announcing: "This is a stickup."

Drunkards, entertainers, proprietors, bartenders, are lined up, face to the wall.

A railroad watchman enters with a big dog, the dog bites the "stick-up" men.

Accidentally they turn out all the lights, then fire at random. Three female "entertainers" of the cabaret are killed, half a dozen others wounded. The police find corpses, and hysterical women and men. The railroad watchman followed the bandits' automobile in his own and thinks he shot one or two.

One little chopped up torso is very mild compared with that.

A decision, important to the moving picture industry, is announced by the supreme court. Ten of the biggest companies are said to be breaking the anti-trust law.

The supreme court knows. But let us hope that nothing will be done to destroy prosperity in this great industry, that now leads the world. Even if moving picture men are breaking the anti-trust law, which is more or less of a fossil, it is a comfort to remember that they are also breaking the hearts of competitors in France, Germany, and all over the world.

If we have something successful, like automobiles or movies, let us give it a chance.

Massigli, French delegate at Geneva, complains to the League of Nations that the huge airplane, Do-X, could suddenly be transformed into a formidable war engine.

He thinks Germany should not have such dangerous weapons.

The Cyrus H. K. Curtis delegate in Russia discovers that the great Soviet tractor factory, located far out of reach, could be transformed, almost overnight, to a factory for tanks, guns, war gas and explosives, to be used in war, and supply "millions of fighting men."

The French and the Curtis delegates are right.

Any big factory can make killing machines. Any big airplane, or small one, can drop poison gas or high explosives.

Napoleon waited in vain for a wind that would take him a few miles across the channel, to invade England.

Now Switzerland, without a foot of water front, could secretly build and manufacture enough airplanes, poison gas and TNT to destroy every big city in Britain.

It is a problem for every nation, just as the saved off shotgun and small machine gun are a problem for every citizen.

The thing to do is to be prepared

INSTRUCTORS' REPORTS LAUD SALEM SCHOOLS

Comparisons Are Made During Annual Visitation

Salem public school teachers, returning from recent visits to schools in various sections of Ohio and Pennsylvania, today submitted reports to J. S. Alan, superintendent, lauding this city's educational system as "ranking among the best in the country."

The teachers were almost unanimous in favoring Salem in their comparative reports on study, recitation and other classroom activities in the other schools. Their reports in full will be read at next Monday night's meeting of the board of education.

Visiting Day Annual Event

Visiting day is an annual event in Salem schools, teachers being instructed by Supt. Alan to make comparisons and contrasts of systems of the other schools with those used in this city. Practically every report submitted, Supt. Alan said this morning, indicated that the teachers were more satisfied with systems of instruction as used in this city and that although there are possibilities of improvement, schools here rank higher than those visited.

In socialized recitation system, introduced more than a decade ago, was given favorable comment in the reports from instructors. One report brought out the need for additional playground equipment at a grade school in this city. Excerpts from reports follow:

Encourage Initiative
"In our schools we strive to encourage initiative and leadership in children by the socialized recitation. It obtains better results

NEW PRICE SET ON Y. & O. ROAD

$100,000 Cut to $240,000 By Court After Appeal By Counsel

When the Youngstown & Ohio River Railroad company's property offered for sale at 11 a. m. Dec. 2 by special master J. D. Dewese, the road and its premises can be sold for $240,000, which is a reduction of $100,000 from the former price set by the court.

L. P. Metzger, as counsel for the railroad which is now being operated under court order by Dr. Dewese as receiver, went before Judge Winfield S. Slocum and filed a motion to modify the former order of sale wherein the upset price of $400,000 was specified by the court. This motion was sustained by Judge Slocum who has now named the upset price at $240,000.

The special master has also been instructed to report future proceedings to the court for its consideration and final order.

When the road was offered for sale November 18, there were no bidders, and the sale was then continued by the special master until December 2.

Red Cross Roll Call Heads Urge Action As Goal Nears

Campaign Closes Thanksgiving Day; Booths Take Pledges

With Thanksgiving day as the closing date for the annual Red Cross roll call campaign, Salem workers today made preparations to wind up the drive and issued final pleas for cooperation of the city's residents in assisting the local chapter in filling its quota of memberships.

Efforts will be made in the final two-day period to enroll all residents who have not as yet subscribed for 1931 memberships, officials announced this morning. Those persons who have not been approached are asked to sign membership cards and place them in boxes maintained at downtown banks and other places here.

Boxes and membership cards are available to those wishing to enroll at the following places:

The Farmers National bank, First National bank, Citizens Savings bank, Home Savings and Loan company, R. S. McCulloch store, McMillan book store, the Stark Electric station and the Memorial building.

It was explained by officials that workers have found it impossible to approach all persons during the roll call drive. They urged that those persons who have not been enrolled do so at the above-named places. Receipts will be sent promptly for all memberships deposited in the boxes.

Salem's Red Cross drive of last year brought the city into recognition as leading all cities of its size in Ohio in total memberships.

Workers explained that this standard has been maintained here for the last two years and it is hoped that the drive will bring a similar success this year.

A generous response from residents throughout the state is asked by the national Red Cross this year in order to provide for the states, needy and unemployed. In Salem, need for financial assistance in the roll call drive is emphasized, with the arrival of cold weather.

Bergholz Man Wounded As He Battles Two Gunmen

DEAD MAN'S PAL EFFECTS ESCAPE

No Trace Found Of Robbers In Recent $1,500 Theft

STEBENVILLE, Nov. 25.—A robber identified as Jerry Kelley, 30, Wheeling, was shot to death by Rescoe Smith, 60, proprietor of a hardware store at Bergholz last night, and a second, known to police as Harry Brown, 35, Pittsburgh, escaped after a gun battle in which Smith was wounded twice. The store owner is in the Ohio Valley hospital at Steubenville where attaches say that his condition is fair today.

Owner Opens Fire

No trace of Brown has been found. The two men entered Smith's store and ordered him to hold up his hands. Instead of complying, Smith reached for a revolver and opened fire. Kelley returned the fire but Brown fled. Sheriff William Yost believes that he may have been wounded. A blood spattered glove was found outside the door.

Four of Smith's bullets took effect, one passing through Kelley's heart. Smith was wounded in the chest.

Mrs. Chester Smith, daughter-in-law of the storekeeper, heard the shots at her home near the store and summoned police. Although a dragnet was thrown out for Brown he could not be found in the Bergholz district.

Walked From Minerva

Before Kelley died, he told Sheriff Yost that he and Brown had walked from Minerva to Bergholz yesterday and that they had not been in the town more than 10 minutes before they attempted the fatal holdup.

Bergholz was the scene of a $1,500 robbery of the M. Geisinger general store last Sunday. No trace of those thieves has been found.

MARION HIT BY $75,000 BLAZE

McNeal-Wolfford Building Burns; Firemen Are Handicapped

(By Associated Press)

MARION, Nov. 25.—Fire of undetermined origin, starting on the roof of the three-story McNeal-Wolfford building, in the downtown section, caused estimated damage of $75,000 early today.

Firemen were hampered for a time by low water pressure and had considerable difficulty bringing the flames under control. Shortly after the fire was discovered at 4:45 a. m., the pressure was so low that the water would hardly reach the roof.

The building on West Center street, between Main and Prospect streets, housed the Marion business college, a five and ten cent store and private offices. Firemen who made the estimate of the damage said the section of the building which was not ruined by fire would suffer heavily from water damage.

Face Charges Of Chicken Stealing

(By Brush Moore Leased Wire)
LYBON, Nov. 25.—Richard Hewitt, 28, and Roy Goves, 30, both of Youngstown, who were arrested by Sheriff W. J. Barlow, near Williamsport Saturday night following a five-mile chase over dirt roads, will get a hearing today upon charges of automobile and chicken larceny. Barlow claims that the men, driving a sedan which was stolen from A. J. Schneider of Youngstown, attempted to run over him when he tried to stop them near Williamsport. He opened fire, one of the shots penetrating the rear window of the automobile, narrowly missing Hewitt. The pair were arrested when their car was overtaken by the sheriff.

The men, according to Barlow, are paroled prisoners from the reformatory and Ohio penitentiary.

Entertainer, Also

WHITE BLANKET COVERS STATE; SLOWS TRAFFIC

Mercury Falls Overnight; Further Drop Predicted Today

AIR MAIL SERVICE IN OHIO CRIPPLED

Slightly Warmer Weather Forecast for Thanksgiving Day

(By Associated Press)

The advance guard of winter, marching across the world, sent a cold wave toward the Atlantic seaboard of the United States today while Europe worked desperately to control floods which have driven thousands from their homes.

An American storm sweeping out of the far northwest brought cold weather into Minnesota and the middle west. On the other side of the ocean, France, Germany, Belgium, and Holland, England and Austria struggled to stem rising rivers swollen by rains which showed no signs of abating.

Society Aviatix Halts Flight

COLUMBUS, Nov. 25.—Reports of hazardous flying conditions enroute to St. Louis, Mo., of Miss Ruth Nichols, a society aviatix, to her start of the second flight in quest of a speed record now held by Mrs. Keith-Miller, of Australia.

The society aviatix who arrived yesterday from Roosevelt field, N. Y., after a flight of three hours and 38 minutes, decided to await clearing weather before continuing. The record is computed only on elapsed flying time and halts because of weather conditions do not endanger her chances for a new record.

localities the snow was three inches deep.

R. P. Vickers, city chemist, reported the mercury in Salem had dropped to a minimum temperature of 26 degrees today showing a decrease of six degrees from Monday's lowest. The mercury hovered at 29 at 6 a. m. and dropped three degrees by noon.

Snowfall Throughout Salem

The United States weather bureau reported minimum temperatures last night of 24 at Cincinnati, 24 at Columbus and 30 at Cleveland. The mercury trend continued downward however, and fell four degrees in Cleveland during the morning. A further drop was predicted for tonight, with thermometers at about 20 degrees in the latter city.

Slightly warmer weather was forecast for Thanksgiving day but there was no assurance of a thaw.

Air mail service in Ohio was crippled by the snow and auto traffic was badly hampered. Slippery country roads slowed bus and intercity traffic of all kinds. In Cleveland, thousands of workers were delayed from one to two hours in getting to work as their automobiles skidded and became tied up in traffic jams.

According to the weather bureau, the snow was general from Michigan to Tennessee.

TOO BIG TO BE OVERLOOKED

A letter signed by the presidents of a nation's leading universities, its best known clergymen, its most famous militarists, its greatest social workers, a representative group of business men and financiers, the heads of two of its most powerful newspaper organizations and many judges and lawyers is important. Unification of opinion by so many important people is rare on any matter, and especially rare on popular issues.

Such a letter was received by President Hoover last Saturday. Its first paragraph read:

"We the undersigned American citizens, believe it is important for the honor and well-being of our country, that the United States should promptly adhere to the permanent court of international justice at the Hague, commonly known as the World Court. We believe that the rights and safety of the United States are amply protected in the protocols of adherence which have been signed by your predecessors, Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge, in furthering a World Court for the settlement of legal disputes between nations."

Following this statement, the signers declared themselves to be acting as individuals in pledging their support to the president if he would submit the protocols to the senate and ask for prompt ratification.

Mr. Hoover is said to be preparing his message to congress at the present time. There has been a question concerning his probable action on the World Court, some professing to believe he would not submit the protocols until assured of their easy passage through the senate, while others have assured him repeatedly that they would be willing to abide by the senate's decision at this time. The latter group is confident that public opinion is united in favor of ratification sufficiently to force the senate to take favorable action.

The president cannot overlook the letter which he has received. It is too big in purport and backing. The time is right for ratification of the protocols of the World Court by the United States.

TIME TO REMEMBER

There could be no better time than the present to recall the failure of congress last year to re-enact the Sheppard-Towner act. An important conference on child health and improvement has just adjourned from the White House. President Hoover has made a stirring speech directing the attention of the American people to the needs of their children and the manifest advantages of more intelligent care for them.

The Sheppard-Towner act, which called for and received the cooperation of the states, was designed to assist mothers, and incidentally their children. Although it committed the government to an expenditure of only $1,252,000 a year, it had done inestimable good. During the time it was in effect the infant mortality rate was cut from 76 deaths per 1,000 live births to 63, and the maternity death rate reduced from 68.2 to 64.7. In the last year of its operation, up to June 1929, the Sheppard-Towner act was credited with saving 25,000 baby lives.

What happened? The same thing that happens when a polite old lady attempts to board a street car at the rush hour. The Sheppard-Towner act was lost in the rush of tariff legislation veterans' relief legislation log-rolling pork picking and the noisy clamor of special interests. No one had time for mothers and babies.

Labor organizations and the National League of Women Voters will demand action from congress in the coming session. It seems that time should be found for this excellent legislation before congress adjourns again.

What Others Say

APPOINT MEN, AND FOR LIFE

The Detroit News has been publishing a series of interviews dealing with the relative merits of the appointive and elective judiciary system as applied in the states. The specific contrast being drawn between the Massachusetts appointive system and the Michigan elective system.

There is no real room for serious difference of opinion regarding which of these two systems is preferable. The appointive system is a product of ages of human experience and has been found sound in theory and practice. It has kept the federal bench at a high level. The elective system is experimental and dangerous.

The elective system, as far as the United States is concerned, is an outgrowth of an excessively democratic wave that swept the country in the early part of the nineteenth century while there was a craze for quick rotation in offices and the credit or discredit for first suggesting it, is assigned by some people to Thomas Jefferson.

The elective plan for procuring the personnel of the state judiciary spread rapidly once it was inaugurated, and was picked up almost universally without any very profound public thought, much as the primary elective system was picked up and generally adopted a few years ago.

At first, the elective plan seemed to work well enough to meet the necessities of society. The country was new. People were given to living the simple life, and the rules of conduct that governed them were relatively few and were clearcut. Any man of ordinary sense and integrity could go on the bench and take care of the demands of justice with fair success. Indeed, things seemed to go along pretty well until after the opening of the twentieth century.

But matters are different now. The galloping degeneracy of politics which has set in since the advent to the primary system, the consequent destruction of party responsibility and the vast increase of political corruption and inexperienced voters, have made the problem of getting reliable and competent, or even passably honest men on the bench more and more difficult each year. There has been a considerable lowering of the general standard of the judiciary, just as there has been a lowering of the general standard in other branches of the public service. At the same time the measure of temptation upon even the best of judges to play politics, in order to keep their positions, once they are elected, has grown enormously as a consequence of these same conditions.

To make matters worse, the country finds itself in a situation in which the need for effective, fearless, uncompromising and superior men on the bench, in every court from the highest to the lowest, is more imperative than ever before in the history of the United States.

The increase of crime, the spread of general dishonesty, and the unavoidable complication of minor regulations of conduct due to the increasing density of population and the new complexity of life generally combine to create social conditions and problems that would tax the capacity and ingenuity of any set of judges. If they are to be handled, the men on the bench must be placed in positions of independence that will enable them to act without fear, favor or dread of losing their jobs as a result of performing their duty.

Judges in state courts unquestionably should be appointed, and once appointed should be kept on the bench during good behavior. The one point to be considered is how to provide for appointment in a manner that will insure a maximum of quality and good performance, and a minimum of unwise or unfortunate selection. — Detroit Free Press.

NO EXTRA SESSION!

Do senators and representatives at Washington desire and propose that economic distress, distrust and timidity shall continue indefinitely? That this condition shall go on paralyzing business effort in 1931 as it has done in 1930? If so, they will shape matters, as some of them are doing now, to bring about an extra session of the 72nd congress. The situation is plain enough to every responsible business man. Nothing can be really more certain than economic recovery in this country. But nothing could be more conducive to delay in the sort of action and enterprise that will lead to that recovery than the exploitation or the menace of legislative nostrums that would be involved in an extra session.

The only motive for the enforcement of an extra session is the motive of intriguing politics. And the damaging effect on business and industry of factional political nostrums is only too well known to the American people. There will be time enough for the solution of the political problems that are bound up with the peculiar composition of the new congress when that body meets for its regular session. Nothing but mischief can result from the premature precipitation of the consideration of these problems.

Now is it in any sense incumbent upon the present congress to anticipate the struggles and entanglements of the 72nd congress. The revival of prosperity itself will minimize these problems. Let the present congress confine itself to the enactment of necessary pending legislation, pass the plainly requisite appropriation bills, and adjourn sine die, with no shadow of a startling extra session in the offing and all will be well. Recovery does not await legislation. It awaits a reasonable degree of confidence and that confidence will be vastly encouraged by abstention from empirical legislation. It is the duty of our representatives in congress to the business men and the workers who have sent them there, as well as duty of every influential leader of public sentiment, to oppose an emphatic "no" to the idea of an extra session. — Boston Transcript.

War Against Tuberculosis

Science is adding daily to our knowledge of the body and its true functions. Discoveries are being made at such a rate that it is difficult to keep up with them.

One of the most cheering examples of the advance in medical science is the successful war being waged on tuberculosis in all its forms.

Not so many years ago tuberculosis was looked upon as incurable. Now we know that it is really curable. We have learned that right living is the telling factor in its cure.

In consequence, the death rate from this disease is steadily decreasing in most localities in our country. Unfortunately, in the congested sections of our great cities it still presents a serious problem.

The subject of nutrition is being vigorously investigated in relation to disease. In no human ailment is proper nutrition a more important factor than in the control of tuberculosis.

This disease may attack any of the organs or any part of the body. The intestines form a convenient place for the tubercular germ to find a lodging place. It is rare for the disease to spend its force in the intestines. Yet if the membrane lining of this passageway becomes involved, say from infected milk, or some other agent, then there will be numerous local symptoms.

The most common symptom of this form of tuberculosis is diarrhea. For this reason, treatment is difficult, because feeding the patient in tuberculosis of any kind is a matter of paramount importance. The resistance to disease must be built up as quickly as possible. If the digestive tract is out of order, forced feeding is most difficult.

When a person is emaciated, lacks strength, has great prostration and fever, he must be put to bed and remain there until he does permit him to get up. Absolute rest and quiet are essential in the beginning.

There is no medicine in the world like fresh air and sunshine. In tuberculosis the patient must have fresh air day and night. It is a vital thing in tubercular infection and nothing must stand in the way of getting it. We are not doing our duty by the sufferer unless we keep this constantly in mind.

Except in certain rare forms, sunlight is one of the most powerful in this disease. Either natural or artificial sunlight may be used. If the latter, it should always be used under the guidance of a physician.

To sum up the treatment in tuberculosis of the intestines, or other forms of the disease, the essential factors in the cure are hygienic surroundings, fresh air and sunshine. To these we add plenty of rest and sleep, a diet in which milk and eggs are the foundation, and freedom from worry and mental disturbance. With all these, there is every chance of recovery.

NEW YORK Day by Day

by O.O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The saxophone goes the way of the bicycle to oblivion. While the present crop of footers are not casting the instrument aside there are few fledglings to take their places. The accordion is gradually supplanting the sax in collegiate popularity.

The accordion has not suffered the comic paper stigma accorded the saxophone. Parents associated it with wide pants, postage stamp caps and gum gurgling. A big musical house reports selling four accordions to one saxophone, with college boys leading in the purchases.

Rudy Vallee's future gave the sales of saxophones a spurt they never enjoyed before. Thousands of impressionable young men decided to use them as alpenstocks to scale their Matterhorns. But this increased the kidding and frightened off the timid.

Phil Baker's popularity as a smart talker, interpolating arias from his snow-white accordion appealed to many youngsters who secretly desired to emulate him. Night clubs featured accordions. The technique is comparatively easy and the music blends with moonlight romance.

Nevertheless many young men owe a debt of gratitude to the saxophone. During summer vacations they have been able to join liner and coastwise steamer orchestras and see a drab world turn magical. Any number "saxophone" their way through college.

Also doctors often recommend saxophone blowing as a remedy for bronchial troubles. Among notable reports to be mastering the accordion in leisure moments are the Prince of Wales, King Alfonso and Michael Arlen.

Few actors have gripped their public so long as Charlie Chaplin. Ten years is considered an almost impossible stretch for popularity to remain at its peak. Yet there is as much interest today in a Chaplin picture as when he made his enormous hit 17 years ago.

One wonders what happened to the old London barfly from whom Chaplin admits he acquired his famous mannerisms—the shuffling walk, quick heel turns and derby tip. The old fellow held horses in front of a pub and was especially amusing when in his cups. Chaplin used to mimic him for boys in his neighborhood.

Chaplin had many imitators who annoyed him several being stopped by legal injunctions. His fruit comedy was literally squeezed out of a boyhood of frustration. He was in an English peachhouse for years and when he got his first chance at a job suffered an accident from which he eyesight was believed lost.

I often wonder why taxicab owners cannot express the courtesy of the old time livery stable keeper from whom you rented a horse and buggy for a drive. The horse is curried to a gloss and the buggy spotless. You paid him $1.50 an hour—if it was a little more than an hour it didn't matter—and a tip would have been an affront.

Richard Le Gallienne returned to America recently for some household effects in his home in the Catskills to take to Paris where in a seven flights up attic he expects to spend the rest of his poetical dreaming days. In a corner of the Catskill house was a hermit's nest. The poet plugged up the exit with mud had the whole thing carefully crated and shipped to Paris marked, "One hermit's nest." All of which may be a poetical sentimentality or a joke on the French customs inspectors. Mr. Le Gallienne did not say.

The Stars Say

An active and generally progressive day is forecast from the ruling planetary configurations. Yet there may be difficult situations to handle and also an unfortunate incitement to rash, impulsive measures, which may be the means of precipitating loss, strife and complications. With this tempestuous spirit well under control, there are excellent prospects of new openings and desirable contracts.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of excellent opportunity, with good openings and new contracts, all of which should be wisely and calmly grasped. A child born on this day should be clever, ingenious and adventurous, as well as practical and hardworking.

RULES SAMMON IS SUBJECT TO 30-YEAR TERM

Illinois Attorney General Acts Against "Public Enemy"

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Efforts to put another "public enemy" behind state prison bars were reported underway today.
James (Fur) Sammons, paroled convict and reputed beer gang gunman, whose criminal record, police said, dated back for more than 30 years, was the object of the latest assault by the authorities.

Attorney General Rule
A ruling by Oscar E. Carlstrom, attorney-general of Illinois, that Sammons was subject to arrest and return to the penitentiary to serve an unexpired 30 years of a 50-year term for murder in connection with the slaying in 1903 of Patrick Barrett, a saloonkeeper, formed the basis for the contemplated action.

The attorney-general held the parole law did not apply to a commuted sentence, such as Sammons had received after he had been sentenced to death for the saloonkeeper's death. Chief Justice John McGoorty of the criminal court was reported to have indicated he would sign an order for Sammons' return to prison.

Barker Back in Pen

If such action is taken, Sammons, now in jail pending a move for a new trial on a vagrancy charge, will be the second of the hoodlums named by the Chicago crime commission as "public enemies" to be returned to prison for old offenses. George (Red) Barker, alleged labor racketeer, recently was sent back to the state reformatory at Pontiac as a parole violator. Barker was subsequently transferred to the state penitentiary at Joliet.

Almost simultaneously with the attorney-general's ruling came a report that Sammons, who was the first of the "public enemies" to be convicted of vagrancy, had been named by the grand jury in a true bill returned under the habitual criminal act.

Guards On Lookout For Spanish Air Ace After Jail Break

(By International News Service)
MADRID, Nov. 25.—The hunt for Major Ramon Franco, Spanish air ace who escaped from the convent-jail in which he was imprisoned a month ago, continued throughout Spain today.

Guards watched highways, airports and railroad stations, poking guns and bayonets into covered vehicles that might hide the fugitive flier or his companion in flight, Commander Eduardo Reyes of the Spanish Foreign Legion.

Franco was serving a 10-month sentence for conviction on a charge of writing articles criticizing the government and favoring establishment of a republic. Reyes had been convicted of bigamy.

This nation may realize, too late, that sentimental peace talk isn't a sufficient protection.

The Tariff law permits Secretary Mellon to forbid importation of goods made by convict labor. Yesterday he issued an order expected to prevent importation from Russia.

If anybody says goods shipped from Russia are made by convict labor, or labor working against its will, goods cannot come in unless the Russian producer and the American importer can prove that the convict labor has not been employed.

According to Mr. Lawes, 1,000 New York racketeers are known to the police, who do nothing about it, and this complicates the situation.

WRECKED PLANE IS SIGHTED AT HEAD OF RIVER

Believed To Hold Secret Of Fate Of Canadian Flier

(By Associated Press)
WHITE HORSE, Yukon Territory, Nov. 25.—Wreckage of an airplane in the headwaters of the Liard river, was believed today to hold the secret of the fate of Captain E. J. A. Burke, Canadian flier, and two companions lost in that area since October 11.

Unable To Land
Weeks of search were dimmed yesterday when Pilot E. L. Wasson returned to White Horse and reported sighting the wreckage. A shortage of gasoline compelled him to return without landing. He arranged today to fly to a landing point 15 miles from the scene of the wreck and "mush" to the headquarters.

Wasson said he believed a visit to the wreckage would reveal a message or clues of the fate of Burke and his companions, Emil Kading and Robert Marten, prospectors.

The Burke party was lost while flying from the Liard river mining district to Atlin, B. C., after a prospecting trip. Wasson said it appeared the plane was forced down.

Hunt For Renahan
Meanwhile, on the coast of northern British Columbia, two United States navy planes and two Canadian planes continued the search for pilot Robin Renahan and two companions, lost October 28, while flying north to aid in the search for Burke.

Rumors at Vancouver, B. C., that Renahan's plane had been sighted, were not confirmed by reports from Prince Rupert.

Two Pacific International Airways machines, flying from Smithers, B. C., enroute for Atlin via Telegraph Creek, were unreported. They left Smithers Saturday.

Plan To Pay Off War Vets Is New Proposal In House

Measure Is Suggested To Provide Unemployment Relief

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Proposals to relieve unemployment by paying off adjusted compensation certificates held by World war veterans are gaining support in the house.

Studies Proposal
Chairman Johnson of the Veterans' committee today saw "something to be said on both sides." He is making a thorough study with a view toward possible suggestions for new legislation.

Rep. Patman, Texas, Democrat, is seeking a majority endorsement to force action on a bill he introduced 18 months ago, and several others in both parties have expressed interest.

Patman estimated today it would cost $3,000,000,000 to pay the veterans in full, or $2,000,000,000 if they were paid 80 per cent.

Another plan, providing for cash payment of at least 25 per cent of the value of the certificates has been advanced by Rep. Cochran, Democrat, Missouri.

Fund Accumulated
There is now $700,000,000 in the treasury, accumulated against retirement of the approximately 3,600,000 certificates issued to the veterans at the end of the war. They were given $1,000 insurance policies which mature in 1945, with the right to borrow on them from the Veterans' bureau.

The interest on such loans, however, is 6 per cent, a rate termed "outrageous" by Chairman Johnson.

The strange creature, reported to be 42 feet long, including a tail measuring 16 feet, was believed to have been preserved since prehistoric times by being encased in ice in the upper reaches of the Columbia glacier. The ice was believed to have worked its way gradually to the sea. The head was reported to be six feet long and the body 20 feet in length.

than the unit plan used in schools visited. Pupils failed to grasp fundamentals.

There are better leaders developing in our schools. Our children have more enthusiasm, pep, initiative. The other students' knowledge of facts probably compares favorably with ours but Salem pupils would be far superior in work where creative ability or originality is needed.

"I think Salem pupils are far more independent and capable of doing things for themselves," another report says. "Our schools not only equal those visited but in many respects, are superior. Our buildings are more modern and far more attractive. The student is the person to be educated, therefore he should be the center of activity. Yet, during most of recitation in other classrooms, the teacher, rather than the student, is the main figure in discussions. This is not the case in Salem."

"The library in the schools visited surpassed our own high school library. Some departments are much better than Salem's but classroom work here is far in advance of theirs."

Cosden's Millions Gone Again—Wife Sticks

Twice Josh Cosden Compiled Huge Fortunes, and Twice He Has Lost Them. Beautiful Wife Fought Poverty's Battle, Which Nearly Cost Her Her Hard-Won Position in Society—Can She Go Through It Again?

OKLA.—Josh Cosden has again lost a fabulous fortune, but he is still rich. For his beautiful wife who has weathered the storm of poverty before, is sticking to him in the latest crisis in the career of the meteoric oil man Josh Cosden has streaked across the sky of riches and society twice before and it would seem that his wife still believes in his ability to pull himself out of the slough of failure again to climb the Olympian heights of success. And while society is admiring the lovely Mabel Cosden for her wifely devotion, it is wondering if she will really continue to stick to him should he not be fortunate enough to stage another sensational comeback.

The romance of the Cosdens is as interesting as any story penned by a novelist. The business career of Josh Cosden is as absorbing as the romance of his life and marriage. The two are intertwined. Cosden was a farmboy in Warten, Maryland. He became a trolley car conductor, a bill collector and then a drug clerk. He married Ottilie Lowensprung and with her migrated to Oklahoma, his mind fired with stories of the newly developed oil wells. Friends in Baltimore believed in the sandy-haired boy and his dreams, and they staked him with capital to develop his own wells and refinery.

Soon Josh was rich and withFrom then on the Cosden fortune wealth came domestic disagreements. There was a divorce and process. It was in 1929 that Josh Cosden staged his comeback. His Palm Beach, Newport and Long Island homes had gone under the hammer but Cosden announced that they would build bigger and better homes with the enormous fortune they again possessed. For it was reputed that Josh Cosden had not only retrieved his losses but was worth a cool $15,000,000 to boot. And now Cosden has again lost his fortune. And the dreams of further social conquests and glory are scattered before the hand of misfortune.

The other day Cosden's latest enterprise, the Cosden Oil Company, was thrown into the hands of receiver at Wilmington, Del. Cosden rushed up from a Florida sanatorium and announced that he would build bigger and better homes with the enormous fortune they again possessed. For it was reputed that Josh Cosden had not only retrieved his losses but was worth a cool $15,000,000 to boot. And now Cosden has again lost his fortune. And the dreams of further social conquests and glory are scattered before the hand of misfortune.

BANK ROBBERS DYNAMITE SAFE; LOOT IS $5,000

Gang Uses Six Sticks Of Explosive To Get At Cash

(By Associated Press)
HAMILTON, Nov. 25.—The Gratiot State bank at Gratiot, twenty miles north of here was robbed of $5,000 today by six men who used six charges of dynamite to break open a safe.

Three Stay Outside
Three robbers were reported to have stayed outside the bank while two confederates entered the institution and blew the safe.

After the first two discharges of dynamite numerous residents living near the bank stuck their heads out windows to learn what had happened and were told by robbers outside the bank to get back into their houses.

The robbers then proceeded with the safe blowing operations and were reported to have discharged four more blasts of dynamite. They then escaped in a large blue automobile. Mrs. Esther Guntle, night telephone operator at the Gratiot exchange, on the second floor of the two-story frame bank building, said she and her husband, William Guntle, were aroused by the first explosion which shook the building.

Looks Into Shotgun
Guntle said he opened a front window upstairs and looked out into a street into the muzzles of two shotguns.

"Get back in there and keep quiet or we'll blow your head off," he said, one robber commanded. Guntle said he immediately did as he was told. He said he believed seven men were in the gang.

MARKETS STOCKS RALLY; STEEL LEADER

Railroad Equipment And Utility Help Turn Trend Upward

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The stock market took courage from favorable overnight news budget today, rallying under the leadership of the steel, railroad equipment and utility shares.
Announcement of a minimum price schedule on sheets by a U. S. steel subsidiary, a drop in bank loans on collateral, an increase in commercial borrowings and a less than seasonal decrease in automobile production last week favored the advance. Two to three point gains appeared in Republic Steel, Gulf States Steel, General Railway Signal, American Locomotive, Lima Locomotive, Drug, Inc. and Pennney. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Vanadium, Colorado Fuel, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone and North American were up 1 to 1 3/4.
Early heaviness in the motion picture shares as a result of the supreme court decision and in a few merchandising issues was later overcome and the losses were generally retrieved.

Avers Gangsters in Home Land More Dangerous Than Cannibal Tribes

Trailing Magic for Years Among Wandering Bedouins, Cannibals of Unexplored West African Colonies, Delving Into Strange Voodoo Rites, Seabrook Returns to Gather Material Spoils of Life.

By ALICE ALDEN
NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Trailing magic, that has become the career of William B. Seabrook, while hobo, roving writer, the famous author of "The Magic Island," the book that put Haiti on the literary map and turned the spotlight on Voodoo rites, has recently returned from several years in Africa where he lived with cannibals and other savage tribes. And Seabrook is here to tell the world that gangsters and racketeers are far more dangerous than cannibals and Voodoo practitioners. He felt far safer in darkest Africa than he now does back home.
It is some years now since Seabrook left his newspaper desk to go adventuring among the strange peoples of the earth. His background was rich. He had been everything from Rotarian to hobo, advertising expert, cub reporter and city editor. The son of a clergyman, he had early rebelled at the smooth pattern of the average existence and putting the smug things of life from him, became a hobo. He worked on farms, did a jail sentence, wore rough clothes, wandered all over Europe avoiding the beaten tracks of tourists and forgot that he had ever been a city editor on an Atlanta paper. It was the glimpse of a beautifully dressed girl and her admiring escort that made Seabrook realize that there was something to well-ordered life and money after all.
Back to America came Seabrook determined to gather for himself some of the material spoils of life. He opened an advertising agency, lived the well-ordered life of a successful business man and then discovered that life was closing in on him, that happiness still eluded him. War became to Seabrook a magic going calling him from the dead sea fruit of life to a more turbulent existence. After the war Seabrook returned to America and went to work in the office of a newspaper syndicate and started to write fantastic fiction.
Just when Seabrook was settling down to a matter-of-fact existence a chance meeting changed the time of life for him. He became friendly with an Arab he met in his wife's coffee shop and determined to discover if the mysterious East did not hold the key to the puzzle of his vague longings and dreams.
Seabrook and his wife went to Arabia and he knew from that visit that he had found his destiny. The study of magic had become with him something of an obsession and so he turned to Haiti Voodoo flourishes. The Seabrooks made their home in Haiti and the author except on into the heart of the Haitian jungle where no white man had ever been before. His hunger for adventure was appeased.
He participated in the strange Voodoo rites, was made a brother and learned that there is something in magic that nobody can define. For Seabrook insists that every white man who has lived long enough with primitive people has to come to the decision, be it ever so reluctant, that the powers of magic are vivid and real. In his sensational book, "The Magic Island," he barely skimmed the surface of the amazing rites of the Haitians. He knows that there are things that would not be believed, things that he has witnessed and even participated in.
Trailing magic has given Seabrook an excuse for his wanderlust. Now he is home from Africa, where he spent some time on the West Coast with the help and cooperation of the French Government. He mingled freely with the cannibals and participated in many of their ceremonies, ceremonies every bit as weird and sensational as those of the Voodoo workers of Haiti.
After returning from Africa, where he found the cannibals to be quite pleasant fellows, he is amazed that we should imagine ourselves safe in the sheltering arms of civilization. It is, he thinks, far kinder to take an enemy for a ride to the sequester than to torture him and take him for a ride in the gangster fashion prevalent in our enlightened cities today.

DRYS OF BOTH MAJOR PARTIES ON NEW TICKET

Senator Blease Predicts Three Slates In 1932 Campaign

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—There will be three presidential tickets in the 1932 election, with the prohibitionists of both major parties organizing a third ticket against the regular Republican and Democratic candidates, Senator Blease (D) of South Carolina, the dry "who takes a drink once in a while," predicted today.

Predicts Lineup
Blease, in his forecast of the next presidential race, named the nominees he believes will represent each of the three parties. They are:
Regular Republican — Former President Calvin Coolidge and Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, as his running-mate.
Regular Democratic — Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, with Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, as his running-mate.
Third, dry ticket — Senator William E. Borah, (R) of Idaho, with Senator Morris Sheppard (D) of Texas as his running-mate.

Says Hoover Won't Run
Blease said he expected President Hoover would not be a candidate for re-election. He conceded the president could force his own re-nomination by control of the convention machinery but insisted the president would not run. He looked upon Coolidge as the logical nominee if Hoover withdrew.

MAJOR PLANTS PLAN BOOST IN STEEL PRICES

Some Corporations Take Steps To Notify Their Customers

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The New York Times said today that major steel interests would shortly announce a moderate increase in prices, pointing the way to a revival of business generally.

Barring an unexpected change in conditions, an upward price revision is inevitable and imminent, the paper said, and some corporations have already taken steps to notify their customers of the proposal, applicable to orders booked for the first quarter of 1931.

While no steel executives would comment, the Times said, well-informed sources reported that the only possible obstacle to the move was a resumption of price-cutting by small independents.

The steel industry is regarded as a reliable barometer of business and its advances in the past have usually foreshadowed widespread improvement in other lines.

MOVIES

"THE STORM"

Lupe Velez plays the leading role in "The Storm." Universal's gripping drama now at the State theatre.

"The Storm" deals with the eternal triangle in a most unique setting. Two men and a girl are imprisoned by winter in a snow-bound cabin in the wilderness of western Canada. The girl is a native, impulsive French-Canadian, her natural impulses untempered by contact with civilization. The men are of widely different types. One is a city man, suave and polished, the other a stalwart frontiersman. Both love the girl—each in his own way.

Slowly, during the woman's visit to their old friendship, while the supply of food in the cabin slowly dwindles, until it becomes apparent that there is only enough to last two persons until spring, when the trail will be again open.

With such a central situation "The Storm" could hardly help being a picture of terrific conflict and suspense. A breath-taking avalanche, a swirling blizzard, a canoe shooting the rapids of a wild river, and tremendous realistic effects are a few of the big moments of the picture.

Lupe Velez has never been seen to better advantage than as the little French-Canadian girl. The male angles of the triangle are portrayed by two of the most capable actors of stage and screen—Paul Cavanaugh and William Boyd.

"WHAT A WIDOW"

At the Grand

Gloria Swanson in a modern comedy with modernistic sets of revolutionary design, smart clothes galore, three new popular songs and a supporting cast headed by Owen Moore, Lew Cody and Margaret Livingston. Such are the ingredients of "What a Widow," the star's most recent talking and singing picture now playing at the Grand theatre.

In the title role Miss Swanson appears as a young and attractive widow, filled with an ambition to make up for years of boredom by seeking romance in Paris. While Owen Moore has the featured role as a young attorney he finds himself with considerable competition for among those eager to aid the widow in her determination to live and learn are a night club dancer, a Russian violinist and a Spanish baritone, played by Lew Cody, Gregory Gave and Herbert Bragg. The cast also includes in addition to Miss Livingston, Adrienne D'Ambricourt, William Holden, Nella Walker and Daphne Pollard.

FEDERAL PROBE IN NILES LIQUOR PACT STARTED

Investigate Alleged Alliance Between Police and Bootleggers

(By Associated Press)

WARREN, Nov. 25.—A federal investigation was under way today in an alleged alliance of Niles police and bootleggers while state authorities were preparing to prosecute 12 men indicted on charges of bribery.

Prosecutor G. H. Birrell said the trials of the 12 men, of whom seven are dismissed Niles policemen, would start Monday. Former Lieut. Edward Kennedy will be the first to be tried if the defendants insist on separate trials.

The federal investigation was in the hands of Paul Hansen, special agent in charge of the intelligence division of the prohibition department at Cleveland.

Ten defendants are reputed bootleggers and gamblers charged with bribing the policemen to pursue their activities unmolested.

POSSE SEEKING TEACHER, GONE SINCE NOV. 16

Officials Believe 28-Year-Old Instructor Has Been Kidnaped

(By Associated Press)

PORT MORGAN, Ohio, Nov. 25.—A sheriff's posse was organized today to search the wooded, mountain country of Northern Morgan county for Miss Edna Martin, 28-year-old Wiggins, Ohio, school teacher, missing since November 16.

Believe Woman Snatched
Clue after clue pointing without substantiation authorities were convinced today their original theory of kidnaping explained the woman's strange disappearance. They believe the teacher may have been snatched and her body concealed in a snow drift.

Meanwhile officers at Champaign, Wyo., were investigating a report that a woman resembling Miss Martin registered at a hotel there last Monday with a man. Police said the couple's automobile was similar to the one in which the woman was believed to have disappeared.

Ranchers To Aid

Ranchers of Morgan county volunteered to aid the sheriff in the search for the teacher unless new clues are uncovered at once, the posse will begin a systematic search both on foot and on horseback, of the prairie, sand hills and gulches in the vicinity of Wiggins.

ROSENBLOOM WINS DECISION OVER PERRONI IN CANTON BATTLE

Six Games Remain On Buckeye Grid Program For Thanksgiving Day

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 25.—Every question of Ohio gridiron supremacy has been settled. Ohio university is again champion of the Buckeye conference.

THE DAY In Sports

BENNY BURNS THROUGH STRIBLING LAUDS WINE
STATE—RABBIT HUNTERS
NOTE—ISSUES HUNTER

Boxing fadism throughout the country mourns the sudden passing of Benny Burns, welterweight champion of South Africa who two years ago, seemed destined for a similar crown in the United States. Burns is through—he proved it last night when he gave disappointing performance against Freddy Edwards but then fans in Northeastern Ohio and other sections of Ohio have been given some great exhibitions by the Barberton lad.

Burns is suffering from faulty eyesight the result of his extensive activities in the ring and even his manager, Joe R. Basco, admits that he is not the Benny of old. He is fighting now merely as a means of support for himself and a mother and father. After a battle gives several years of his best to a critical public, the result is much left to do but grab what he can in the bouts of any kind to pick up a few necessary dollars.

Bennie laid away quite a pile of cash while making his tour of South Africa but loans to friends and relatives left him without a dime. Almost $1,500 is outstanding in debts that probably will never be paid, Basco said last night.

Basco called attention to the great compliment paid around the city to his fighters, Frankie Wine of Mont, by W. L. "Young" Stribling of Georgia. They are touting Stribling as the world's greatest heavy-weight, and he probably is just that now and the other day, when asked who was the toughest opponent he ever faced in the squared circle, Will answered without a moment's hesitation, "Frankie Wine."

This occurred during an interview for a newspaper and has already appeared in print in a national boxing magazine so Joe wasn't spoofing or puffing his fighter's ability on unsteady basis. Wine is good, in fact he is one of the best.

In an announcement issued by the Ohio department of health in Columbus, the following precautions should be rigidly observed by hunters, market men, housewives and others who hunt wild rabbits, in order that they shall be absolutely safe from tularemia, or rabbit fever:

1. Never put your unprotected hands inside a wild rabbit.
2. Always wear rubber gloves when handling wild rabbits.
3. The rabbit must be thoroughly cooked; so well cooked that there is no red meat, nor any red juice, near the bone.
4. As at least 1 per cent of all wild rabbits are infected, the hunter, to be perfectly assured of safety, should not take home a wild rabbit that he shoots in the field if it seems sickly.
5. In order to minimize possible infection, rabbits which are seen slow or sickly, or can be run down and killed with a club, should be killed and, preferably, buried.

Under the Pennsylvania law no western wild rabbit is allowed to be sold until it has been in cold storage at least 30 days. The germ, B. tularemiae, also is killed by a temperature of 137 degrees Fahr. Infection is possible even though the skin is unbroken. All rodents are liable to the infection.

A summary of the latest developments in the country's major groups or conferences follows:
EAST—The Army and Dartmouth have the best records with only one tie on otherwise perfect states. Both have serious tests next Saturday. Army meeting Notre Dame at Chicago and Dart clashing with Stanford at Palo Alto. Harvard's victory over Yale Saturday brought the Crimson's disappointing season to a highly successful conclusion.

BIG TEN—Michigan's 16-0 victory over Chicago enabled the Wolverines to finish in a tie with Northwestern for the conference championship. Northwestern gave unbeaten Notre Dame a great battle but finally went down 14-0. Purdue despite a jolting 7-6 beating by Indiana, finished third with Wisconsin fourth and Ohio State fifth.

BIG SIX—Kansas, by trouncing Missouri 32-0, assured itself of at least a tie for the championship. Oklahoma can gain a tie with the Jayhawkers by whipping Missouri on Thursday.
PACIFIC COAST—Stanford rolled up 41-0 count on California in the only big game last Saturday. The championship already having been won by Washington State.

eye conference. Heidelberg is king of the Ohio conference and shares with Ohio U. Top rank in the state at large. Findlay is champion of the northwest conference while Wittenberg and John Carroll were the best of the unaffiliated teams.

Six games remain to be played Thanksgiving day but they will add nothing to what is already known except whether Dayton is better than Wittenberg.

Games Unimportant
Even the Akron-Mount Union game at Akron will have little bearing on the subject of supremacy in northeast Ohio. Eight Ohio conference teams in that section—Akron, Baldwin-Wallace, Case, Hiram, Mount Union, Oberlin, Western Reserve and Wooster—usually play most of their games against each other although their number has been augmented by the tentative addition of Ashland and Kent this season.

Akron has a clear edge so far being the only college which has not lost a game to another member of the group and is not expected to have much difficulty with the Mounts.

Miami Plays Cincinnati
In other Turkey day games, Miami plays at Cincinnati for third place in the Buckeye conference. Western Reserve and Case settle their annual difficulties with nothing more at stake than whether Reserve is to win one game this season. Xavier is host to the Haskell Indians and Wilberforce entertains West Virginia Institute.

The Buckeye conference question was determined without a doubt at Delaware Saturday when Ohio U. trampled Wesleyan underfoot 20 to 0.

I gave the Athens Bobcats their second title in a row. They have won their last 18 games with only one tie.
Wesleyan ended in second place in the Buckeye conference. Denison, already fifth, finished its season with a victory by 12 to 0 over Wooster of the Ohio conference.

Carroll Smothered
Heidelberg's 41 to 0 victory over John Carroll was brought about by five touchdowns in the third period. Apparently Coach Ted Turner won the game with his dressing room suggestions at the half. Dwight Haley got five of Heidelberg's six touchdowns and clinched individual scoring honors for the state.

Otterbein scored an Ohio conference victory over Baldwin-Wallace 6 to 0, while Kenyon lost to Xavier in another conference game, 38 to 0.

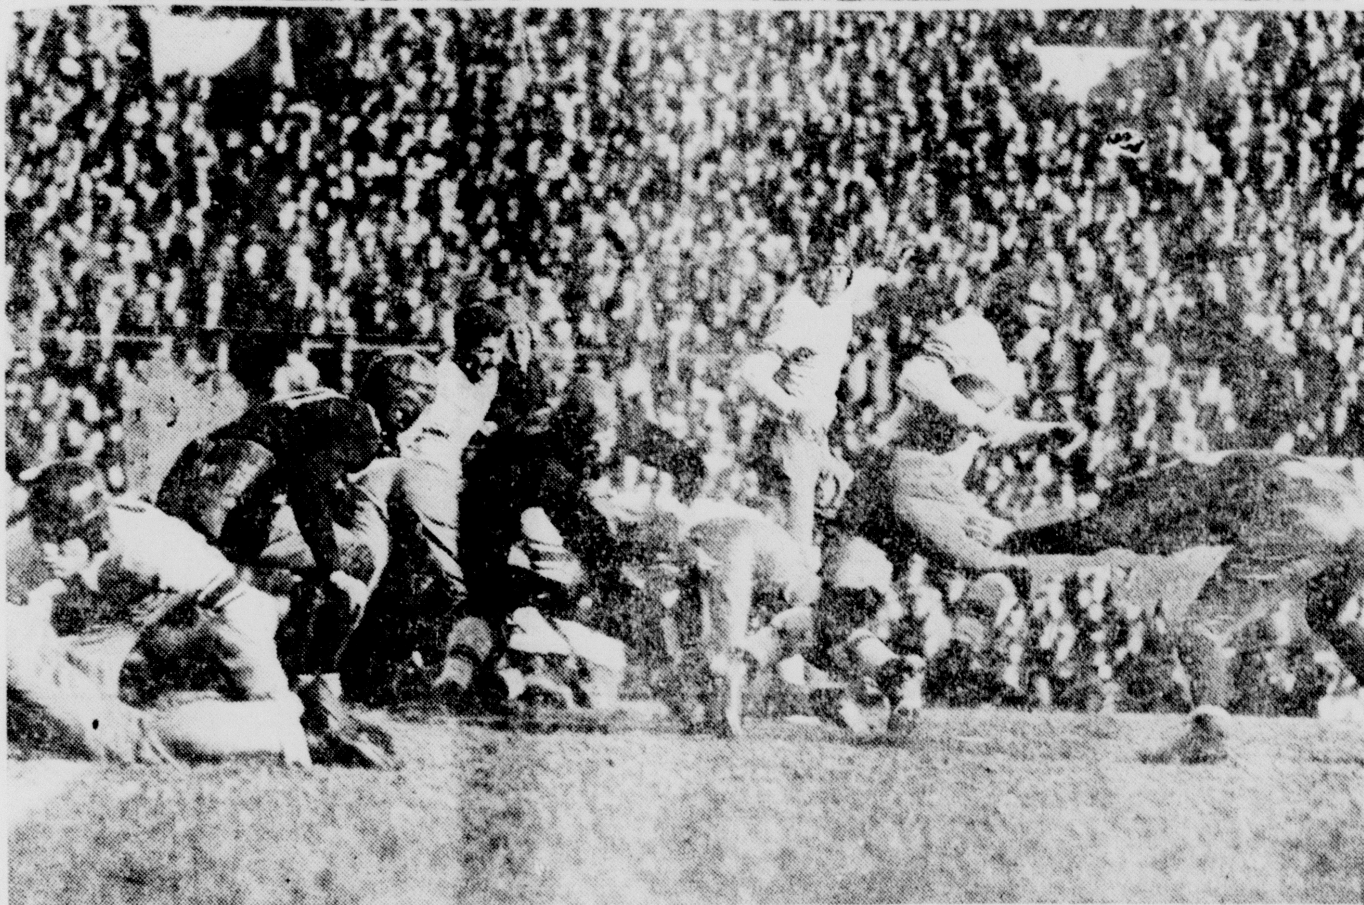

Bluffton completed its schedule without a victory by losing to Ohio Northern 12 to 7. Rio Grande and Hiram are the only other Ohio teams with that distinction although Reserve will probably join them Thanksgiving day.

Toledo went out of its way for an 18 to 0 victory over City College of Detroit and Cedarville to Kentucky for 7 to 0 loss to Morehead. Ohio State's Reserves lost to Illinois' subs 6 to 2 while the varsity was winning 12 to 9 at Champaign.

Better 1931 Team Seen By Willaman

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Nov. 25.—Ohio State Alumni have Coach Sam Willaman's promise of an improved 1931 football machine despite the end of the career of the great Wesley Fesler.

"I told you last year that we would have a better team this season, even though we might not win any more games," Willaman said at a banquet of Cleveland Alumni last night. "I make that same promise again."

Willaman labelled Fesler as the greatest athlete in the school's history, barring not even Chic Harley, and maintained that Fesler earned all-American rating in the backfield as well as at end.

Fesler was scheduled to accompany Willaman to the banquet, but was unable to attend because of school activities.

World Champ Fails To Impress Fandom; Perry Loses Tough Decision

Maxie Rosenbloom of New York City is light heavyweight champion simply because of the fact that American fistic fields fail to offer other good opponents in that classification of the leather-pushing racket.

That is the opinion formed by a large gathering of fight bugs in Northeastern Ohio as a result of the champion's 10-round argument with 19-year-old Patsy Perroni of Canton in the public auditorium at Canton last night. Rosenbloom won the decision by a shade, nothing more, and fans saw a fairly good exhibition of boxing, but little actual fighting.

There wasn't a single hard blow landed by either principal in the entire ten rounds but despite this discomforting fact fans went home pleased for Perroni put up the battle of his life, out-punched Rosenbloom at times, and almost earned for himself a draw. His continual hanging on tactics and apparent refusal to mix it at times gave the champ the verdict.

Rosenbloom coasted most of the way and finished almost as fresh as he started. Perroni looked like a real comer, but there was little doubt about it—had Rosenbloom wished to make him look bad, he might have done so. As it was, however, neither gave over-impressive exhibitions of their ring talents.

Prelims Held Spot Light
The prelims held the spotlight during the evening, every one of four bouts previous to the headliner being a rip-snorting affair that had fans climbing over chairs and shouting until rafters shook.

Tony Leone of Dover, decisively outpointed Carl Cavelli of Canton, in the semi-final and Benny Burns, Barborton, lost by a similar margin to Freddy Edwards of West Virginia in the main prelim.

Jimmy Perry, Alliance, who is attempting a comeback in ringdom, put up a great battle against Freddie Haverlack of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who came as Rosenbloom's stable mate. Haverlack won the decision by an easy margin but Perry put up one real scrap and isn't through yet.

Zeke Jones, Akron, kayoed Bud Morrison, Canton, in the second round of the lidifter.

Perry Shows Improvement
Jimmy Perry has improved greatly since he made his pro debut at the Memorial building gym here more than four years ago appearing much more eager to mix it than once was his habit.

The Perry that fought stepping backwards most of the time was transformed into a battler that led throughout the contest in the Canton ring but Haverlack was too much for him.

Benny Burns is through. Two years ago Edwards wouldn't have given him a good fight but then two years ago Burns was one of the country's best. Edwards hammered him all over the ring and all Benny showed was a wonderful ability or stamina, to take it. Leone had it over Cavelli like a tent in the semi-final but couldn't place him down for the count. The Canton veteran was down for the count of nine four times but staged a sensational comeback and took the last two rounds. These last chapters were real slugfests, both midgets standing toe to toe and head to head in the center of the ring and threw leather for fare-you-well.

Perroni Looks Good
Rosenbloom, handsome Jewish lad that at 24 is rated as the country's best light-heavy, failed to impress fans but he earned a great hand through his sportsmanlike tactics. He might have slipped in a sleeper punch but refused several chances to put an end to the youngster's meteoric career. Perroni looked good considering he was facing a champion but then Rosenbloom just put up the usual exhibition battle.

The fight was even until the last two rounds when handsome Maxie stepped out and patted the Italian with leather for six consecutive minutes to prove that he could easily win the fight if so was his wish.

Savoldi Will Make Pro Debut Thursday

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Jumping Joe Savoldi, late fullback of Notre Dame, will be a halfback for the Chicago Bears when he makes his professional debut Thursday against the Chicago Cardinals.

Coach Ralph Jones moved the Italian to half as a running mate for Red Grange, leaving Bronko Nagurski at fullback.

BUCKEYE COAL MINING SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Ohio Fuel Better Prepared Than That From Other Districts

COLUMBUS, Nov. 25.—Coal now produced in Ohio is as well or better prepared than similar coal from other districts, according to Professor H. E. Nold, head of the Department of Mine Engineering, Ohio State University, writing in the Ohio Engineering Experiment Station News.

This is due to the fact, he explains, that the last two years in the coal mining industry in Ohio have been marked by a decided improvement in mining efficiency, mining mechanization and coal mine operation. Large sums of money, he says, have been and are being spent to modernize Ohio mines and tunnels.

Forty years ago, according to Professor Nold, the average output per miner per working day was 2.56 tons of coal. Thanks to greater efficiency and the larger use of machinery, this had increased by 1921 to 4.16 tons. At present there are some completely mechanized mines whose production has risen to more than ten tons of coal per miner per day.

Where such labor formerly was done entirely by hand, he says, a ton of coal now can be cut by a machine in under-cut from 200 to 400 tons of coal per day, depending on the thickness and physical condition of the seam. The introduction of machinery not only has revolutionized the labor of mining, but has displaced animals for hauling coal in mines. A five-mile haul is now practicable where one of a mile was long for horses or mules.

JUST a tasteless dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in water. That is an alkali, effective, yet harmless. It has been the standard anti-acid for 50 years among physicians everywhere. # These Impartial Gasoline Tests mean more to you in Cold Weather

Using a stock station wagon, Mr. Henry W. Banks, 3rd, New York consulting chemist, tested eleven popularly priced fuels for Acceleration, Power and Mileage. While laboratory accuracy and impartiality marked the conduct of these tests, they were all thoroughly practical.

In testing for acceleration, for instance, a good average highway was used. With the car moving at ten miles per hour in high gear, the accelerator was pushed all the way down and the time was recorded between that second and the instant a speed of 35 miles per hour was attained. Runs were made in both directions and averaged.

For a measure of power, the testers recorded the time required to climb a steep hill with good road surface. They marked a point at the bottom and another at the top, and checked the time between the two points. The car was driven at full throttle.

Mileage was measured by driving the car at a fixed throttle opening as far as it would go on a given quantity of gasoline.

You can make any one of these tests yourself. Or you can use this simpler, quicker means of finding out what "Special" will do in your own car. Drive to any station where Refiners Products are sold. Fill your tank with "Special"—now especially prepared for winter use. Then try your car on familiar hills, for pick-up and for mileage. We are confident that what "Special" gasoline does in carefully controlled tests it will do for you in your car.

I certify that the charts reproduced in this advertisement are accurately based upon tests supervised by me and that the results of these tests are correctly interpreted herein.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

Sweet Potato Pie
"Good sweet potato pie is one of the lost arts," mourned one of that sentimental army of men who recall the favorite dishes of their youth as incomparable. Nobody ever cooked as well as these memories. And sweet potato pie is one of the old favorites which does not appear on menus nearly as often as it used to.

It can be a most delicious dessert—depending on the seasoning. But it is very sweet quite substantial, and only desirable as the finish of an otherwise light meal. It's rather a formidable dessert to tackle at the end of a heavy dinner—although it used to be common enough in the old pre-diet days.

Only a very light, thin pie-crust should be used. Or, if this is not available, the bottom of a buttered pie dish can be sprinkled thickly with finely grated cracker or zwieback dotted with butter and the mixture poured in.

Sweet Potato Pie
2 cupsfuls mashed sweet potato
1 cupful warm milk
1 cupful brown sugar
1/2 cupful butter
4 eggs
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon grated nutmeg
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
Rub sugar and butter to a cream gradually add flavorings and po-atoes, beaten egg yolks and milk. Lastly, fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, and pour in lined pie dish. Bake in a hot oven until set—which may mean about 20 minutes.

White sugar may be used instead of brown, but the brown adds a bit to the pleasant flavoring.

Bathroom Chests Grow Capacious.

That narrow little medicine chest that keeps drugs piled up in inconvenient heaps is gradually giving way to more practical closets of generous proportions. Most medicine chests are too small—or they get too small after they're in use a few months. Bottles and jars and boxes accumulate in irregular rows, and what you are looking for is usually hidden behind several other items you don't want. When you're in a hurry, the average medicine closet presents the same problem as the average woman's bureau drawer—it's a place requiring exploration rather than of offering quick service.

The new bathroom chests are built to serve practical needs. Where there's plenty of room the bathroom chest may be a three-piece unit, occupying about as much space as the bathtub it not more. When closed all that's visible is a series of small and large doors. Opened, these reveal well-planned spaces for all bathroom accessories.

Special Convenience
Different shelves in one compartment contain various sizes of bath-towels. (And what better place for bulky bath-towels than bathroom shelves?)

A long narrow wardrobe effect contains space to hang dressing gowns, Turkish bathrobes, etc.

The medicine chest itself will gladden the eye of the housekeeper with a methodical turn of mind. For it consists of half a dozen or more narrow shelves—very narrow shelves—shelves so narrow that it's impossible to put more than one single row of anything on any one of them.

KILLS GIRL, 16, DROWNS SELF

Cleveland Man Ends Life
After Attack On
Step-Daughter

(By International News Service)
CLEVELAND, Nov. 25.—A double tragedy was investigated by police today following the death of 16-year-old Stella Max, who died after being attacked by her step-father, John Pirutka, 40, shortly before he leaped from a high level bridge to drown in Cuyahoga river, officials stated.

Hit With Flatiron

The girl succumbed to wounds on her head which were inflicted by Pirutka with an electric flatiron, according to police. That part of the domestic tragedy occurred in the little west side home where Pirutka, his wife, Anna, and the girl resided. Within an hour after he was seen leaving the home, he started motorists and pedestrians by leaping from the bridge, 90 feet into the water.

Police were unable to determine what motive aided Pirutka's action in slaying the girl and committing suicide. The girl died without regaining consciousness to tell police what prompted the attack.

The girl's body was found in the kitchen at the home by Mrs. Pirutka. A flatiron, covered with blood, was lying on a table nearby where the girl had been ironing, police said. With the aid of a neighbor, she took the girl to a hospital and while there was called to county morgue to identify her husband's body.

Refuses Help

Workmen along the banks of the Cuyahoga told police that they had witnessed Pirutka's leap. The man did not die as a result of the jump but sank beneath the waves after swimming toward the center of the river and after refusing a rope which had been thrown to him, the workmen related.

LEETONIA

A vaudeville show will be presented at the K. of C. hall next Tuesday, matinee and evening for the benefit of St. Patrick's Parish. Mr. Walter R. Davis will be master of ceremonies. Mrs. Gilkey of West Middlesex, magician, is also on the program. ## "Fighting Frances" M'Gann Is Winner In Battle For Life

Pretty, Blue-Eyed Nurse
Breathes Again; Conquers Fear

(By United Press)
CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—"Fighting Frances" M'Gann, pretty blue-eyed student nurse, has recovered, physicians at St. Luke's hospital said today, both from paralysis of the chest muscles and from "psychosis of fear."

Three months ago Frances contracted an ailment which left paralyzed the muscles that allow contraction and expansion of the lungs. A few weeks earlier it would have meant her almost instant death.

But there had just been installed in the hospital an "artificial lung," known to medical science as a drinker respirator. Apparently lifeless, the nurse was placed in the long, coffin-like apparatus and the motors turned on.

Endures Pain

Inside the machine an alternating vacuum and heavy air pressure effect was produced with pumps operated by the motors. The young nurse endured without a murmur the weeks of pain brought to her lungs by the artificial breathing, earning the name of "Fighting Frances."

"I think perhaps I can breathe alone," she said one day three weeks ago, first for short periods the motors were turned off; then she was removed for a few minutes from the machine.

Finally she spent a full day on a sun porch, chatting with friends. But she almost collapsed when physicians suggested that she sleep that night outside the respirator. "I'm afraid," she sobbed, "My lungs might stop working and I would die in my sleep." They put her back in the machine, only her head protruding from the box, which is studded with heavy plate-glass windows.

Each night for more than two weeks she refused to sleep outside the respirator. One night other nurses promised to sit by her bed and watch her breathing. She awoke screaming at midnight and they put her in the machine.

"Psychosis of Fear"
"I know it looks silly," Frances said, "but I haven't enough fighting spirit to conquer that fear."

Psychologists were called in. They called it "psychosis of fear" and said she never would recover. Miss M'Gann was told of their verdict. She wept and then gamely announced she would "try it again."

Shivering with fear, "Fighting Frances" prayed herself to sleep in a room far removed from respirator. Unaccustomed to sleeping without the motors whirring in her ears, she lay awake for hours. She awoke well and confident—after spending her second night outside the machine. Physicians said her recovery is assured.

a sweeping and radical clearance of floor samples

The sum involved and the extent of the discounts reveal the extraordinary nature of the occasion. Fully 50% of our entire floor stock of furniture—this season's goods—is embraced in this disposal of floor samples. It is the most sweeping and radical clearance of staple merchandise that this store has made recently, and the opportunities it offers Salem homes cannot be overstressed.

Our purpose is to reduce stocks substantially and immediately to make room for Christmas moves and rearrangements. We have gone about the matter more drastically than ever before because we realize that extraordinary measures are necessary at this time to achieve the desired results.

With present regular prices the lowest in 15 years, 25% and 33 1-3% off these prices puts Cope quality furniture on a basis that people are going to do something about it, and do it quickly.

These discounts will be withdrawn just as soon as the necessary clearance is effected, so that immediate action is urgent. Convenient terms may be arranged if desired.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 25—Physicians last night said the condition of David Chizek, 19, Cleveland, Ohio, State football quarterback, remained serious, but he is expected to recover from the back injury he recently sustained.

MANCHESTER ENG.—A glider has been constructed by a group of men here in their spare hours at a cost of $150.

POWER PROBLEM IS ONE OF BIG PUBLIC ISSUES

Series Of Tests Will De-termined Future De-velopment

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The power issue has become one of the outstanding public questions of the day.

Against the claims of private in-terests that theirs is the best way to distribute the blessing of electric light and to the greatest number of people are the assertions from other quarters that the public in-terest requires closer federal supervision of the great power com-panies.

Will Be Contested
The question will be contested be-fore the federal power commission, the courts and in the coming ses-sion of congress. Developments are shaping themselves to afford an embracing series of tests expected to have a great effect upon the course of future development.

To the public the issue amounts to this:
Is the system in operation de-signed to give the greatest bene-fits of electrical power at the cheap-est cost?

The answer is not as clear cut as the question. The following five current cases will help determine it:

1. An injunction suit brought in the courts here by the Clarion River Power company of Pennsylv-ania, seeking to prevent the fed-eral power commission from reduc-ing its investment figures. This di-rectly involves the base upon which rates are fixed. The higher figure would permit the company to charge more for its power. The case is to be heard Dec. 8.

Granted "Minor Part"
2. Attorney General Mitchell re-cently ruled that the Appalachian Power company, a subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share of New York, should be granted a "minor part" license for a plant on New River, Va., on the ground the stream was non-navigable. Such a license would remove all governmental reg-ulation. The case has wide signifi-cance and the present power com-mission is reported split on the question of granting a license with the probability it will go over to the new commission for settlement.

3. The issue as to the power commission personnel, some of whose minor officials now are at odds with each other over policy. This will come before the senate when the new commissioners ap-pointed by President Hoover came up for confirmation.

4. A new Couzens bill providing for regulation of interstate power will be brought forward at this session.

5. The direct issue of private government operation will be in-volved in the Muscle Shoals bill now deadlocked in conference.
